March 29-30, 2019

Moody Bible Institute

820 N. LaSalle Blvd.

Chicago, IL 60610

Announces its

2019 Student Paper Competition

Requirements

1. Contestants must be currently enrolled at an academic institution, either undergraduate or graduate. PhD students will submit papers to the regular program.
2. Contestants must be student members of ETS; their paper must be endorsed by a professor who is a full member of ETS; and they must register for and attend the regional meeting if their paper is selected.
3. Papers will be approximately 4,000 words (no more than 20 double-spaced pages), in correct form and free of typos, on a topic of interest relating to biblical or theological studies. Papers may relate to this year's theme, "Slavery, Freedom, and Power" but this is not a requirement.
4. Previous award winning contestants are not eligible to compete.

Procedure

1. Submit (via email) to Dr. Michael Wittmer by Friday, December 14, 2018 the following: (a) the title of your paper with one page single-spaced abstract; (b) a paragraph of endorsement from the professor who is mentoring your paper; and (c) the following information: contact data, degrees earned, and current degree program information (include your major).
2. If your proposal is accepted, you will then submit a completed draft of your paper (a hardcopy plus a digital version) to Dr. Wittmer, postmarked by January 25, 2019. Up to six of the best papers (3 undergraduate and 3 graduate) may be selected, included in the program, and eligible for an award.
3. If your paper is chosen, you will then submit a final draft of your paper (a hardcopy plus a digital version) to Dr. Wittmer, postmarked by March 1, 2019. You must then register for and read your paper at the Regional meeting at Moody Bible Institute.
4. Late submissions for any of the three deadlines will be disqualified.

Send all submissions (hard copies) to:

Awards

1. Awards will be based on the contribution of the paper and the quality of the presentation.
2. Contest winners will receive cash and book awards.
3. All the decisions of the ETS awards committee are final.
